

FRIEDRICH, Carl J.

The Age of the Baroque. 1610-1660

New York and Evanston, Harper Torchbooks, 1962.

HG 1228

Introduction	ix
Preface	xi
Map of Europe in 1610	xiv
Chapter I – The Pattern of Politics and Economics	1
I Europe in 1610: the Setting; II Population; III Commerce and Finance; IV Industry and Agriculture; V Mercantilism as a System of Power; VI The State versus the Estates; VII The Law of Nature and the Laws of Nature: Althusius and Grotius; VIII State and Sovereignty; IX Thomas Hobbes: Philosopher of Power; X English Constitutional Ideas: Milton and Harrington; XI Conclusion.
Chapter II – Baroque in Life and Letters	38
I The Problem of the Baroque; II The Common Ground: the Restless Search for Power; III Personal Behaviour; IV Poetry and Literature: (a) England, (b) Spain, (c) France, (d) Holland and Germany; V Allegory and Mysticism; VI Conclusion.
Chapter III – Baroque in Art and Music	66
I Architecture and Sculpture; II Painting; III Integrated Wholes: City, Castle, Opera; IV Music; V Conclusion.
Chapter IV – Religion, Philosophy and the Sciences	93
I Catholicism and Protestantism; II The Jesuits; The Jansenists and Pascal; IV The Inner Light: J. J. Böhme; V Anglicanism and Calvinism; VI Science against Superstition: Astronomy versus Astrology; VII Galileo and Kepler; VIII Mathematics of the Infinite; IX Descartes and Pascal; X Anatomy and Physiology: Harvey; XI Mechanistic Politics and Psychology; XII Pantheism and Naturalism.
Chapter V – The Sultry Years of Precarious Balance: The Dutch Ascendancy	124
I Introduction; II The Issue of the Jülich-Cleves Succession; III The Grand Design; IV The Death of Henry IV; V The England of James I: the Parliament; VI The Union and the League; VII Emperor Mathias; VIII Dutch Politics; IX Oldenbarneveld and Maurice of Nassau; X The Netherlands and Spain; XI The Puritans; XII The Pilgrim Fathers; XIII Colonial Rivalry.
Chapter VI – The Thirty Years' War and the Liquidation of the Medieval Empire	161
I Introduction: War of Religion; II Estates versus King: the Bohemian War; III The Danish Phase; IV The Edict of Restitution: Reaction Triumphant; V Foreign Intervention: the Swedish Challenge; VI Modern State versus Medieval Empire: a Compromise Peace? VII French Intervention and the Peace of Westphalia.
Chapter VII – The Modern State Absolute: France Under Richelieu and Mazarin	197
I Introduction: Antecedents; II Richelieu's Arrival to Power; III The Valtelline; IV Internal Troubles: the Nobility and the Huguenots; V The Mantuan Succession; VI Internal Administration; VII Richelieu and the Thirty Years War; VIII War with Spain; IX The Decline of Spain; X Richelieu's Last Years; XI Mazarin-Successor; XII The FRonde and After; XIII Conclusion: The Peace of the Pyrenees and Mazarin's End.

Chapter VIII – The Eastern Dynasties: Hapsburg, Romanov, Hohenzollern and Vasa, 1610-1660	246
I The General Setting: Dinastic politics; II The Beginnings of the Romanovs; III Poland; IV The Struggle for the Baltic: Sweden; V The Great Elector and Brandenburg; VI Hapsburg and Hungary; VII The Eastern and Western Church and the Great Schism.
Chapter IX – The Modern State Limited: The Parliament, Civil War, Commonwealth and Protectorate	272
I The Beginnings of Charles’ reign; II Parliament and King 1625-1629; III Charles’ Personal Government, 1629-1640; IV New England: Puritan Commonwealth; V Eve and Beginning of the Great Rebellion; VI The Civil Wars, 1642-1648; VII The Revolution, 1647-1649; VIII The Commonwealth Free; IX The Protectorate; X The United Netherlands; XI Collapse f the Protectorate and Restoration of the Monarchy.
Chapter X – The Learned Ax: A Bibliographical Essay Revised	327